2019 Challenge: People on the Move

Submission and Evaluation Criteria

Submission Criteria

Is the idea action-oriented, rather than research, convenings, policy development, or advocacy?	X
Does the idea focus on building and repairing unique bridges between people on the move and host communities, to promote meaningful engagement and sustainable, community-led change?	X

Design and Engagement Criteria

Does the idea reflect the context, cultures, knowledge, needs, and aspirations of those most impacted by the idea?	X
Does the idea go beyond meeting basic needs to help people fulfill their human needs of joy, hope, and dignity?	X
Does the idea move the world in a more equitable and just direction?	X
Does the idea recognize and incorporate the value of lived experience to solve a real problem for the community?	X

Additional Considerations

Does the idea show evidence of perspective and voice from those with lived experience?	X
Did the participant engage on the platform, either by responding to comments or providing feedback to others?	X
If shortlisted, did the participant incorporate expert feedback into their final proposal?	X

A note regarding submission eligibility:

BridgeBuilder seeks ideas focused on building bridges to a shared future of stability and promise for those forcibly displaced from their homes. Ideas are invited from individuals and teams currently or previously experiencing displacement (or with deep expertise in the issue area), as well as registered nonprofit, civil society, community-based, and for-profit organizations working anywhere in the world. If you are an individual or team without a registered organization, you are encouraged to post your idea in the Challenge early, so the community management team can work to identify potential implementation partners within the Bridgebuilder community.
