

Transform Utilization Management into True Care Management

Health plans need utilization management solutions that foster collaboration, not frustration.

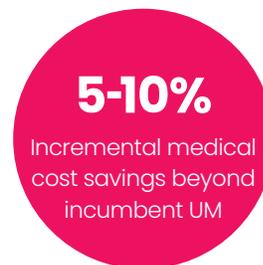

Our mission is to reimagine utilization management as a process that enables patients, physicians, and health plans to collaborate on getting the right care—at the right time, at the right place, and with the right value.

The problem

Traditional utilization management programs, built on fee-for-service models and legacy technologies, create complexity and fragmentation that negatively impact patient care.

Our unique value to health plans

Together, our solutions drive 5X-15X ROI for health plans

The solution: leverage technology + clinical expertise to drive the best care decisions across the entire patient care journey

Cohere Health was founded to not only address these prior authorization inefficiencies, but to transform utilization management into a proactive, patient-focused “ally” that addresses the entire patient care journey. Cohere’s solutions combine AI, machine learning and real-time analytics with deep, evidence-based clinical expertise to help health plans not only intelligently automate manual processes, but also bridge the gap from volume to value, by keeping patient journeys central to decision-making and orienting prior authorizations to the whole episode of care.

By reimagining the traditional, transaction-based approach to UM, we enable greater collaboration between health plans, providers, and patients, driving better care quality, better outcomes, and less unnecessary medical cost.
