Agreement for Permission

We understand ourselves as an open community of creators, who share and respect each others work and tread it with fairness and consideration. We share and distribute each other's content and always give credit to the original creator.

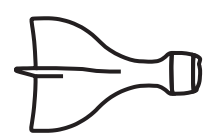

By uploading my content, I understand and agree to the following terms. These terms apply to myself, the AERVIDEO company, and everyone else who contributes to and/or makes use of the content collection.

I grant permission to others to use, edit and publish my photo and video files.

Whenever I publish work containing content of others, I credit the original creator. In the caption or description I will post his/her name, social media channel or website link.

I will not use the content of others for commercial reasons. This includes, but is not limited to, the monetization, licensing or selling of the footage. Furthermore I will not use this footage in paid advertising campaigns or boosted posts.
