

Salem Regional Medical Center Welcomes Family Medicine Physician Stephanie Raynish, M.D.

August 6, 2018

Salem Regional Medical Center (SRMC) welcomes Board-certified Family Medicine physician Stephanie Raynish, M.D., to our Medical Staff. As of August 6, Dr. Raynish is joining the physicians of the SRMC Internal Medicine Center and Columbiana Family Care Center to provide a full range of health care services to area residents.

Dr. Raynish

Services Provided

"It is exciting to return to this area and serve the people of the communities where I grew up," Dr. Raynish said. "As a family doctor, I look forward to caring for patients of all ages, from newborns, adolescents and adults, to the elderly. I have a special interest in providing women's health care for all ages; as well as preventative health services, health education and care for children and teens. I always try to do what's best for my patients and am happy to work with a Hospital and medical staff who share the same goal."

Education and Training

A graduate of Western Reserve High School, Dr. Raynish received her Doctor of Medicine from the Northeast Ohio Medical University. She then completed her residency training in Family Medicine at Summa Health System in Akron. Board-certified by the American Board of Family Medicine, Dr. Raynish's professional memberships include the American Academy of Family Physicians, American Medical Association and Christian Medical & Dental Association.

Office Information and Appointments

Dr. Raynish will see patients in Salem at the SRMC Internal Medicine Center, 2020 East State Street, Suite C; and in Columbiana at the Columbiana Family Care Center, located at 116 Carriage Drive in the Firestone Farms TownCenter.

To schedule an appointment with Dr. Raynish in Salem or Columbiana, call the SRMC Internal Medicine Center at 330-332-7807.

###