

Senior Communication and Engagement Contractors and Consultants

About the business

Comacon is an Australian communication and engagement consultancy specialising in work on infrastructure and natural resource projects.

We have offices in major capital cities and regional locations throughout Australia, as well as a growing number of international locations.

About the role

We currently have a number of opportunities for Senior Communication, Stakeholder and Community Engagement Advisors on site on large infrastructure projects or in Government offices.

These positions are available on a contract, casual or permanent basis.

Benefits and perks

We produce excellent work that we are consistently proud of. Our culture encourages collaboration, teamwork and support. We have developed a workplace that focuses on brilliant work and rewards individual and team performance. We believe in our services and seek to value add at every opportunity.

We work hard, but we are flexible and results not structurally driven. We believe we are a great team to work with! These positions offer an excellent opportunity to learn from and be part of a highly experienced community relations team and offer excellent career progression. These aren't just words; our clients consistently give us excellent feedback.

We want OUTSTANDING applicants.

In return we offer generous remuneration, a bonus structure, a family friendly workplace with flexible employment options and the opportunity to work with a values based organisation that prides itself on delivering excellence, every time. We want the best and we will treat you accordingly.

Skills and experience

We are seeking applicants who are tertiary qualified and IAP2 accredited (or willing to gain accreditation). We would expect the successful applicants to have relevant experience in stakeholder engagement and to come from a consultancy, construction or public sector background.

We are seeking applications with energy, enthusiasm and determination.

Interested? Send your resume to: hr@comacon.com.au