EIDOO

Your Blockchain Asset Experience

Founded in 2017 through an ICO that raised more than $20 million, Eidoo is an app for mobile and desktop devices that allows storing, converting and spending Ethereum, Bitcoin and all ERC20 and ERC223 tokens.

Eidoo has been one of the few teams to launch an ICO with an already functioning product.

Right now Eidoo's functionalities include a non-custodial wallet, a hybrid exchange, and the ICO Engine. The last one is a tool that allows participating in and launching token sales that are 100% compliant with local regulations.

As stated in the roadmap, in the near future Eidoo will include a debit card and support more cryptocurrencies and tokens within the wallet and the exchange.

THE CRYPTONOMIST

Reporting the future

The Cryptonomist is an online magazine available both in the Italian and English language with the aim of becoming the most authoritative online newspaper about crypto, ICO, trading, bitcoin, and blockchain technology. The Cryptonomist reports the economic and technological revolution that is conquering more and more spaces and consensus. A revolution that also encompasses social relations, laying the foundations of a world where the word decentralization is present in all areas of entrepreneurship and social coexistence.

The Cryptonomist also provides marketing services to ICOs and crypto-related startups.

NEXEX

The Crypto Side of Money

Nexex is a European-based cryptocurrency exchange that allows people to buy and sell cryptocurrencies in the most secure way.

Nexex is a combination of the words next and exchange which symbolizes our goal of introducing a new standard of crypto trading exchanges where the main objectives and pros are safety and decentralization.

Nexex not only allows crypto-to-crypto conversion but also fiat currency trading.

People can use fiat currencies anytime to pay for goods and services, by using a debit card and a personal IBAN that we will provide thanks to a partnership with an e-money company, Outbit, based in Malta.

EKON

The Evolution of Gold

After the so-called gold standard has been abolished, there are no fiat currencies that are 100% backed. On the other side, bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies do not have any backing, their price is determined by the demand.

Ekon's goal is to reintroduce the gold standard but on the blockchain.

By taking advantage of the potentialities of blockchain technology, Ekon created a stable coin that is 100% backed by physical gold.

Ekon Gold (EKG) is the first stable coin of its kind, a digital representation of gold that is securely stored in a Swiss vault and easily manageable and transferable.
