TIME WORN

▲ Architectural Ceramics has added eye-catching cement tiles to its wares with the Sabine Hill Collection. Sturdy and versatile, the tiles (pictured here, Bluff) sport bold patterns, vibrant colors and a sense of history. The designs are created by a mold, then hardened without heat in a press. Good for wall or floor applications. architecturalceramics.com

UNDER FOOT

BUNDLE UP

▲ Keep warm this winter with Zola Arctic, a line of windows from Zola European Windows designed for extremely cold climates. Features include a slim, timber-aluminum frame, foam insulation, thermal glazing and five layers of sealant. A range of options is available for styling, hardware, wood species, privacy glass and more. zolawindows.com
