LQAC projects in the works

Submitted by
Lake Quality Advisory Committee (LQAC)

The Lake Quality Advisory Committee (LQAC) was formed nearly five years ago. Each spring, the group decides what actions to take in an attempt to promote plant growth and water filtration in and around both 4-Island and Cub Lake. This year, a portion of the plan forward is to consolidate and organize our artificial floating islands (AFI) which are located in both 4-Island and the 7th Hole Pond. The purpose of the floating islands is to naturally improve the water quality of our lakes by reducing the phosphorus levels and building a defense against a surge in nutrients.

The goal is to reduce algae levels and provide a healthy fish habitat where the island resides.

The cost of a professionally built floating island can run into the tens of thousands of dollars. It is essentially constructed of a floating material that houses an aesthetically pleasing assortment of aquatic plants. (Imagine a lawn garden floating in a lake.) However, whether the cost is tens of thousands or a few hundred dollars, the idea is the same. And that is to develop a root system that extends well into the water below, and removes water pollutants such as nitrogen and phosphorous, that are key contributors to the build-up of algae.

In 2021, in an attempt to reduce the cost of combating the increasing nutrient levels, the LQAC began experimenting with AFI by constructing two small islands out of PVC ma-

Developing your at-home doggie spa day

Megan Reubens, Pet Groomer, is excited to share her knowledge on home grooming; everything from suggestions on tools and products, to the gentlest ways to help your pet with gland expression issues!

Her journey with dogs began in 2015 at Dirty Dogs and Meow, a natural dog food store, where she transitioned from a salesperson to a bather. In 2017, she began her apprenticeship with Absolute Pawfection Luxury Mobile Grooming and completed her training in late 2018, where she went on to work as a one-on-one groomer and establish her own unique style!

Megan's approach to grooming is built on respect and clear communication with both the owner and the pet. When combined with proper maintenance at home, this ensures a low-stress and often enjoyable grooming experience for our furry friends. She firmly believes that a dog's trust in their groomer can help overcome, or at least partially alleviate any fears or hesitations they may have during the grooming process.

When Megan is not treating pets to a spa day, she is busy wrangling her two toddler daughters and supporting her husband, who serves in the US

Navy. She enjoys riding horses and spoiling her daughters, Lyla and Ellie, as well as her dogs: Pippa (a small mixed breed), June (a Bloodhound), and Dixie (a Basset Hound). If time allows, her favorite outing is ocean fishing with her husband!

BVCSD Works: An interview with Wes Shryock, Interim General Manager

Describe your top goals: I have three top priority goals. The first is to identify and implement long-term solutions for the very complex infrastructure issues currently faced by Bear Valley Springs. My second goal is to support community cohesion through the work of multiple passionate community members who step-up to provide extraordinary benefits to all residents. My third goal is the ensure that all staff can reach their own goals and potential through an ideal, supportive working environment.

Describe the structure of your department/unit: I am supported through my Executive Assistant (Denise Jelleschitz) and through engagement with the Acting Chief of Police (Dain Hurst), a newly hired Director of Public Works (Chester Chapman), Director of Finance (Perla Fikter), and Human Resources Director (Lynn McKettrick). I also work directly with the BVCSD Board of Directors.

Describe your typical day: I maintain flexibility and fluidity in my day-to-day operations so each day is unique. While my work is primarily focused on administrative tasks, I welcome input from the Board of Directors, staff, and community members. Moreover, I strive to balance my administrative duties with orchestrating and overseeing all the facets of managing the BVCSD.

Describe your most immediate priority: I recently hired a new Director of Public Works. We had several excellent candidates, and I am confident in Chester's ability to move us forward. My current priority is on-boarding Chester to assure that he is ready to take on multifaceted tasks associated with this position. An in-depth understanding of supervisors' work "in the trenches" will also be vital so that the he, as the new Director, is ready for planning long-term project, can be proactive rather than reactive, and can address critical, immediate needs. In addition, I am engaged in moving BVS away from an outside IT firm and have advertised the position to find the best fit for our specific needs.

Describe projects/events underway and those planned: I'm also excited over our first step in addressing major infrastructure needs. We will begin with a smaller project involving replacement of the main waterline on Aqua Villa and Port Royal. From there, we'll move to larger and more intricate repairs.

What would you like for the residents of BVS to know?

Overall, I have found that the people who work for the CSD are amazing—from the office staff to those who are out in all types of weather, making repairs, plowing snow, protecting residents (both human and wildlife). They are dedicated to giving their all, as am I. 🐾

Pony Club banquet and fashion show held

What a busy and exciting summer our club has been having! We began the season with our first-ever BVS Pony Club Banquet and Fashion Show in June. That was followed immediately by our first campout of the year. On July 4th, many of our members participated in the BVS 4th of July parade. We're just getting started this summer and we can hardly wait for all the fun events and opportunities to come!

On June 14, we held our inaugural fundraiser banquet event at the Oak Tree Country Club. Many members of our community purchased tickets to attend and we all had so much fun together and raised money for a great cause! The evening began with delicious appetizers and tempting equestrian-themed cocktails – the Strawberry Roan Margaritas were a huge hit! We then enjoyed a delightful dinner of tri-tip, herb-crusted salmon, pasta primavera, and a variety of fabulous salads and sides. Dessert included mini treats such as crème brûlée and chocolate pot de crème. I do not believe anyone left that banquet hungry! The food, drinks, and service provided by the staff were positively first-rate.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of an incredibly fun and unique fashion show featuring equestrian and Western-themed clothes and accessories from two fashion-forward local businesses: Cowboys and Angels and Wild Roots Style Co. Both of these businesses made sure our models looked absolutely amazing! A few of our models also modeled some of their own riding wear. Guests also enjoyed a silent auction and raffle, consisting of an incredible array of goods and services donated by many generous friends of our club. A few other highlights of the evening included club members modeling our newly-designed T-shirts and several members sharing with the audience what Pony Club has meant for them. It was just a beautiful evening and we are so humbled by all the support we received.

We are so grateful for ALL of our wonderful sponsors and supporters. Our club is flourishing because of you all – thank you! We'd like you all to know about the very special people and businesses that have supported our club.

Special donation: Sonya Schroeder very generously donated a much-needed shade structure for the seating area at the jumping arena in the Equestrian Center, which is where our

A new star in our sky

Submitted by
Bear Valley Springs Astronomy Club

Our sky is about to, or by the time you read this, may already have, a new star visible! Several members of the BVS Astronomy Club are watching the star T Corona Borealis. T CrB is a binary star consisting of a white dwarf orbiting a red giant star. It's normally far too faint to be seen by the unaided eye and so doesn't have a common name, although it's gotten the nickname "Blaze Star," because every 80ish years it undergoes a nova eruption. Such a recurrent nova should not be confused with a supernova, where the entire star explodes in a runaway thermonuclear event. In this recurrent nova, the intense surface gravity of the extremely compact white dwarf is pulling away some of the red giant's bloated outer atmosphere. The material spirals in and piles up on the surface of the white dwarf. About every 80 years, enough material is accumulated to initiate a thermonuclear explosion. While not large enough to disrupt the entire star, the blast blows away the accumulated material on its surface and is so bright that the star briefly goes from invisible to our eyes to rivaling the brightest star in its constellation. Once cleared away, the entire cycle starts over again. Signs are pointing to T CrB being ready to go nova anytime in the coming month or two. It should then remain visible for several days before slowly fading back to its normal dim state.

as a semicircle of stars high overhead between the constellations Hercules and Bootes. Once T CrB flares, it'll ruin the constellation's circular crown by adding an extra star slightly outside and to its left. At its brightest, T CrB should appear very close to the same brightness as CrB's brightest inhabitant, Alphecca (a.k.a. Alpha CrB).

This is something that you need to see for yourself. Not only is this likely to be the brightest nova of your lifetime, it's a clear reminder that the cosmos is not eternally static, but dynamic and ever changing!

The greater the obstacle...

Submitted by Debbie Cianca-Mayer
BVS Carriage Club

Have you ridden on the cross-country course lately? If not, be sure to as new challenges await you and your steed!

The BVS Carriage Club felt that more obstacles were needed up there and got to work! Thanks to the cooperation of our equestrian center manager, Doug, and the hard work of our assistant manager, Luis, as well as Steve Auman and Kevan Mayer, we now have three new types of challenges.

On the left as you go through the gate, you will see a large water obstacle. (It will be filled with water once this heat wave is over!)

As you ride the path parallel to the long, far side of the driving arena, an eight foot pass-through awaits you. (Special thanks to Melissa Auman and Freedom Feeders for the textilene mesh aisle guards for the sides!)

Lastly, head up to the far left corner to see two different sizes of turntables (one for minis/ponies and one for horses).

All the obstacles have been tested and approved by myself and my horse, Ellie! They are great fun, but remember to introduce them slowly to your equine partner! Enjoy!

terial, plastic mesh, coconut coir, and a few selective plants. The selection of hardy plants was to see which plants grow well in our environment. The two small floating islands that were originally constructed are now overgrown as a result of plants that do very well in this environment; they currently reside in the 7th Hole Pond. In 2022, the LQAC constructed five additional islands which are located in both the protective area and the dam locations of 4-Island Lake. This summer, these AFIs will be reworked and organized with similar plants unique to each island. The idea is to again develop a water filtration system and a fish habitat, while generating a plant nursery for harvesting and replanting these plants at different locations in and around the lakes.

In addition to the floating islands, the second portion of this year's plan involves our water lilies; they appear to be doing well. If you look at the Cub Lake dam along Bear Valley Road and also in the vicinity of the dock, you will see the water lilies beginning to stem, leaf, and flower. Nearly all the lilies planted in Cub Lake are rooting from inside large dish pans (appx. 20 quarts in volume.) The dish pan approach allows repositioning of the lilies into deeper water, if necessary, once high levels of evaporation begin to set in. This typically occurs in the heat of the summer.

In order to keep the plants cool while still allowing them to receive ample amounts of sunlight, they are kept in a minimum of two feet of water. If you look at the 7th Hole Pond, you will see a large body of water lilies that are planted directly in the soil, but started their growth from large dish pans four years ago, and are doing extremely well. Initially, the LQAC wasn't sure how the plants would survive drought-like conditions; therefore, the flexibility of moving the plants to deeper parts of the pond seemed necessary. Since then, we have discovered that the lilies are quite resilient and can endure stretches of drought, while bouncing back to normal growth once the water levels return. In addition, we have learned that the lilies grow at least twice the rate in ground soil versus the confines of a two-foot square pan. Eventually, the dish-panned lilies will be transplanted in ground soil throughout both Cub and 4-Island Lakes, and lilies harvested from the 7th Hole Pond will be planted in the dish pans.

Well, that's the near-term project in a nutshell. The LQAC is always looking for new volunteers. Should you have an interest in helping rework the floating islands and/or the water lilies, feel free to contact the LQAC early this summer. Otherwise, enjoy the view.
