AMPS and PNOA Form Strategic RBP Partnership

ATLANTA, June 15, 2021 – Advanced Medical Pricing Solutions (AMPS), a pioneer in healthcare cost containment, and Provider Network of America (PNOA), a direct-contracted provider network with a presence in all 50 states, announce expansion of their strategic partnership in the reference-based pricing (RBP) sector. Through the holistic PNOA Network, AMPS' members will have exclusive access to the country's top medical professionals.

After successfully piloting the integration between AMPS' cost-containment platform and PNOA's contracting engine, AMPS validated that when members were seeking care they achieved deeper savings, expanded their provider access, and encountered a better member experience. AMPS and PNOA have agreed to further integration and promotion that will provide AMPS self-funded, healthcare sharing, health system, and health plan clients with access to PNOA's network of providers that accepts fair pricing for encounters.

"PNOA is thrilled to expand its partnership with AMPS to now actively promote access to our growing number of contracted providers to groups adopting reference-based pricing," states Mark Dyer, CEO of PNOA. "Through this strategic partnership with AMPS, a leader in the RBP market, PNOA will have a channel to help more families gain access to our growing network of cost-conscious providers."

The combined offering from PNOA and AMPS, available immediately as an option to AMPS clients, enables members access to more than 2,500 hospitals, 25,000 ancillary facilities, and 525,000 providers nationwide. This strategic partnership, along with the AMPS Care Navigation team and the AMPS Connect mobile application, will allow for better pricing, less provider pushback, and improved member experience for groups adopting RBP.

"By partnering with PNOA, AMPS clients gain access to the fifth largest network in the U.S., which is expanding each and every week with high-quality medical providers and other medical services," notes Kirk Fallbacher, AMPS president and CEO. "The partnership allows us to gain access to providers best suited for all our clients and their members, which helps AMPS fulfill its mission to make healthcare dollars go further."
