Dear Sir or Ms:

I am enclosing a panel which I helped construct for a dear friend of mine, George Richard Macklin.

Richard, as we called him, was a consummate music lover and performer. Along with his dog, Faszold (named for a character from an opera which Richard loved) and his friends and family, these things represent the things that Richard held most dear. Hence, some of the artifacts that have been applied to his quilt panel concern these things: A picture of Richard with his dog, a dog collar that would have fit Faszold, a copy of his score of Treemonisha, and the front of the tuxedo he wore when he performed with the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra and Chorus. Richard had a rich and beautiful Baritone voice.

Richard never could swim, but wanted badly to visit the beaches of Jamaica before he died. Alas, he never made it to Jamaica (his doctor advised against this kind of travel as his condition worsened) but did manage to go on a road trip to Key West with a few of us, where he learned how to snorkel and swim very late in his life. This to him was a very proud accomplishment. We have applied his snorkel and mask, on which he wrote his name.

Richard was a special gift to our lives and touched many through his appreciation and performance of beautiful music. His other friends and I appreciate the opportunity to remember him with this quilt panel.

Sincerely,

Bill Hart

The NAMES Project Foundation,

Eric L. Jordan is our son and he was born June 20, 1965 and died June 18, 1995. Eric was raised in Nashville, Tennessee and graduated from Maplewood High School. He continued his education in Atlanta at Clark College graduating with a Bachelors of Arts Degree in Speech Communication in 1987.

Eric loved to write and wrote several short stories and poems. He also was active with the Clark College Players. While with the players Eric had lead roles in West Side Story in 1983 and Yardbird's Vamp in 1986. After graduating college Eric moved to Detroit, Michigan and began his career with Diversified youth services and the AIDS Consortium of Southwest Michigan. He was very active in the Gay community in Detroit.

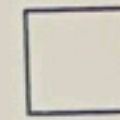

The family's favorite memory of Eric is receiving early morning phone calls on the weekend. Eric's portrayal of a clown at family birthday parties, his love for writing and traveling, baking and entrepreneurial spirit for selling his baked goods to friends and co-workers during the holiday's are other fond memories of Eric. Everyone in the family has a fond memory and they will be too many to mention. Eric is truly missed and loved although it has been almost 13 years we still feel his presence everyday.

Thank You,

Elmore & Eleanor Jordan
