Director's Notes

“The whole soul of man is a sort of picture gallery, a grand panorama.”

Frederick Douglass was in love with photography. He wrote more extensively on the subject than any other American and he was the most photographed American of the nineteenth century. He loved photography because he believed in its truth value, or objectivity. Photographers knew that photographs lied.....but Douglass and most patrons of photography believed that cameras told the truth. Douglass believed photography revealed the essential humanity of its subjects,

In 1900 Du Bois picked up the work that Douglass had begun, when he gathered 400 photos of African American communities at work and exhibited them.

Scenes 2, 5, 7 and 11 are excerpts of Douglass lectures on photography
Scenes 3, 4, and 6 are from Douglass’ My Bondage and Freedom
Scenes 12 is excerpted from W.E.B. Du Bois’ The Souls of Black Folk
Scene 4 is “Andante” from Southland Sketches, by H.T. Burleigh; performed by Mazz Swift and Tom McDermott
Scene 12 is an adaptation of “The Negro Speaks of Rivers” by Margaret Bonds; arranged, programmed and performed by Mazz Swift THEODORA SKIPITARES (Director & Designer) is an interdisciplinary artist and theater director based in New York. Trained as a sculptor and theater designer, she began creating personal solo performances in the late 1970’s. She has created 30 works featuring as many as 300 puppet figures, live music, film, video and documentary texts. These projects include Under The Knife, a site-specific history of medicine and Body of Crime, a history of women in prison. In 2014, she devised The Chairs, a reflection on Ionesco’s absurdist classic, and in 2016, she created Six Characters, a response to Pirandello’s play. In 2018, she presented There’s Blood at the Wedding with music by Sxip Shirey. Set within six giant-scale pop-up book constructions, this play reflected on the lives and deaths of six victims of police violence. In 2020, she created The Transfiguration of Benjamin Banneker, a multi-disciplinary project incorporating street performance, a high school marching band, and various forms of puppetry and object theater. Skipitares has received grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, the New York Foundation for the Arts, the New York State Council on the Arts, UNIMA, a Guggenheim Fellowship, a Rockefeller Fellowship and a McKnight Playwriting Fellowship, among others. Her visual work has been exhibited widely in the U.S., Europe, and Asia, most recently at the Whitney Museum. She has worked frequently in India as a Fulbright Fellow, as well as in Vietnam, Cambodia, Korea, Iran, Brazil, and Greece. Skipitares is Professor of Art and Design Education at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York.

MAZZ SWIFT (Composer, Musician) is a composer, conductor, singer, bandleader, educator, and Juilliard-trained violinist. Improvisation is a throughline in their practice across genres and instrumental configurations, and can be found in most of their works. As violinist and singer, Mx. Swift has performed on many of the world’s greatest stages including Royal Albert Hall, Queen Elizabeth Hall, Stern Auditorium/Perelman Stage at Carnegie Hall, Merkin Concert Hall, Müpa Budapest, and David Geffen Hall, Alice Tully Hall and Damrosch Park at Lincoln Center in New York City. As composer, Swift’s works include commissions by The Los Angeles Philharmonic, Banff Centre for Arts & Creativity, and the Blaffer Foundation. As an educator, Swift has performed and taught workshops in free improvisation and “conduction” (conducted improvisation) on six continents and is a performing member and teaching artist with the acclaimed Silkroad Ensemble. They are also a Carnegie Hall teaching artist, where they write and record lullabies with incarcerated mothers and mothers-to-be at Rikers Island, and coach incarcerated men at Sing Sing Penitentiary on string studies and composition. Mazz is a 2021 United States Artist, and 2019 Jerome Hill Artist Fellow, continually creating orchestral compositions that involve Conduction, and solo works that are centered around protest and freedom songs, spirituals, and the Ghanaian concept of ‘Sankofa’: looking back to learn how to move forward.

CHRISTINA COCOMOTION SMITH (Choreographer) Dancer, choreographer and New York native Christina Smith, better known under the moniker CocoMotion serves as the founder and artistic director of NuTribe Dance Company. The company’s rituals in dance explore a fusion of black dance vernacular including hip hop, funk (waacking and locking), African, Krump, stepping and spoken word. NTDC’s mission is to address the marginalization of blacks in dance while addressing the under-representation of black dancers performing street dance. We aim to showcase through dance-personal experiences handling micro-aggressions, the social-emotional hardships and injustices that are needed to survive being black in America. Overall, the company’s goal is to provide audiences with an array of black excellence. We aim to showcase street dance in concert dance venues that have previously closed their doors to such an idea. Graduating from Hunter College in 2019 with a M.A in dance education. Coco was awarded a prestigious full scholarship to attend graduate school, fully funded by the Lincoln's Center Education Scholars Program. It was there that she founded NTDC during graduate studies at Hunter. Currently working as an educator and freelance artist and mom, Coco spends most days teaching dance at a charter school in Brooklyn to High School students where she is able to teach classes in hip hop, traditional African and modern dance. She has performed at The Apollo Theater, The New Victory Theater, SummerStage, WaveHill and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. As a choreographer she has worked with Elle Pierre, Cuzzins the Band, Phil Loft and Dae Burger. She continues to battle nationally and internationally entering in dance freestyle battles.

REGGIE BROWN (Assistant Choreographer/Dancer) born in South Carolina and raised in The Bronx, NY, Reggie grew up as a theater youth, going to a theater arts high school while simultaneously being part of H+ the HipHop Dance Conservatory while also taking acting classes at Mind Builders the creative art center. Reggie is an aspiring actor and dancer living his current life working to better his career in the big city. Working on picking up gigs and confidently setting his path towards his dream.

DONALD EASTMAN (Set) made his La MaMa debut with 3 Solo Pieces by Winston Tong. His work here with Theodora Skipitares includes her productions of Under the Knife (The History of Medicine), There Will Be Blood at the Wedding, The Transfiguration of Benjamin Banneker, and Six Characters. He has received numerous awards across the country including an OBIE Award for Sustained Excellence and is a grantee of the NEA/National Opera Institute.

RAMONA PONCE (Costumes) nominated for both the Innovative Theater and Henry Hewes Design awards, has spent the last 40 years costuming downtown theater, opera, dancers and rock-and-rollers, including many of LaMaMa’s artists. In addition to costume work, she does specialty needlework for fashion designers and fine artists, and styles visual elements for a variety of applications. Her artwork has been displayed at galleries in New York and Arizona. She designs special occasion wear for women and men, lectures on costume topics whenever an opportunity comes her way, and greatly enjoys a fine glass of Champagne.
KAY HINES (Video) has worked as a media artist in video and installation work since the mid-1970s, and as a video cameraperson and editor since 1981, when she and husband, artist, Dieter Froese established a video production company, Dekart Video, specializing in media services for artists and Independents. Hines has received various awards for video and artwork including, an NEA, a NYFA, and a Cine Golden Eagle. She is currently Associate Professor in the Department of Digital Arts, Pratt Institute where she has served on the faculty for the past 19 years.

JANE CATHERINE SHAW (Puppetry Director/Lead Puppeteer) is a member of the Lincoln Center Directors Lab and graduated on the Dean's List with an MFA in Directing from Brooklyn College. She is curator of La MaMa's Puppet Slam and co-founded the Voice 4 Vision Puppet Festival in 2004. Ms. Shaw was puppetry director for Theodora Skipitares' The Transfiguration of Benjamin Banneker at La MaMa (2020). She was puppetry co-director and master puppeteer for Mabou Mines’ Peter and Wendy and built and directed the puppetry sequence for Lee Breuer's Dollhouse. She often worked with Ellen Stewart to re-create costumes from historic La MaMa shows from the 60's and 70's. Ms. Shaw was nominated for a 2014 New York Innovative Theatre Award for her work with Theodora Skipitares on The Chairs. She creates and directs her own work for puppet theatre, among them, The Three Dolls (co-created with Clayton Daniel Briggs and Molly Riesman), Framed; The Mother Goose Chronicles, Calpurnia Coyote Comes To The Big City, The Blue Marble, Following the Wind, Folktales of Asia and Africa, Pelandok the Mousedeer, as well as adult works: Thirst: Memory of Water, The Lone Runner, Bed of Light, and Universe Expanding, all of which premiered at La MaMa. She has worked with Theodora Skipitares since they met in 1989, helping to build her shows and puppets, and puppeteering in many of her productions. She has been a teaching artist with the Brooklyn Arts Council for 9 years, and recently joined the teaching artist team at Arts Connection. She created and taught a lab/course titled Puppetry and the Digital Avatar at The New School in 2018. In Nov of 2019 she presented her paper The Puppet Body as Archive of Performance in a working session at the American Society for Theatre Research (ASTR) and is currently working on an extended version of the paper.

ANDREA BALIS (Dramaturg) has been the dramaturg for Skysaver productions for many years. In addition, they have worked as a director, playwright and author of both fiction and nonfiction articles and books. They are also on the faculty of John Jay College.
