Timothy White Eagle is a mixed-race artist with ancestral roots in the Scottish Highlands and along the Colorado river. His art practice rises from a decades long exploration of traditional ritual and embodiment practice. He crafts experiences and objects designed to heal both creator and audience. His preferred mediums include objects, photography, performance and installed spaces. His next project, Indian School, is receiving a 2023 MAP fund grant. He was the recipient of the WAA/AIP Launch Pad award in 2019, as well as a Seattle City Artist award in 2020 and 2023. He has designed sets for Intiman Theater and Seattle Rep. He received a BFA in Theater from U of Utah. In 2015, he was a collaborator on Taylor Mac’s A 24-Decade History of Popular Music. Hatlo is a queer collaborative artist living and making work on the land of the Duwamish Tribe, in so-called Seattle. Hatlo supports the development of original performance through relationship-based processes with individuals, creative teams and community groups in a variety of generative roles (dramaturgy, directing, facilitation, writing, performing etc). Hatlo has been nominated for a Gregory New Play Award for their original play Stuck and for a Stranger Genius award as part of the creative team for Thatswhatshesaid. They were the 2019 Seattle Town Hall Artist-in-Residence.

Paul Budraitis is a director, performer, and generative artist, as well as a teacher of acting, movement, and solo performance. He received a Fulbright grant to study directing at the Lithuanian Music and Theatre Academy under the mentorship of visionary director Jonas Vaitkus. In Seattle, Paul directed the world premieres of Elizabeth Heffron's Bo-Nita (Seattle Repertory Theatre) and Kristen Kosmas' The People's Republic of Valerie (On the Boards), as well as the Northwest premieres of Will Eno's The Realistic Joneses (New Century Theatre Company) and David Greig's The Events (Intiman Theatre). He is based in Berlin.

Crystal Cortez is a sound, installation artist & programmer based out of Portland, Oregon. They are also a professor of Creative Coding & Sonic Arts at Portland Community College. Under their performance moniker Crystal Quartez, they create “Restorative Noise” by organizing drones and rhythms of mechanical life, natural voices, and digital timbres into texture rich electronic music. Their sonic realms are windows into shared networks of reality, often separated by borders, time, and perception. Recently, their work has involved translating live biodata from plants and static data from climate change into sound.

Nic Vincent is a Brooklyn-based lighting designer, originally from Toronto, Canada. He designs for theatre, dance, opera, film, and everything in-between. Recent credits include the bandaged place (Roundabout), Heartstrings (Atlantic Theater), The Barber of Seville (Sacramento Opera), JANE AGNER (Play Per View / New Ohio), Everybody, Constellations (Brown / Trinity Rep), The Indigo Room (Violet Triangle / Timothy White Eagle), Fragments, Lists, & Lacunae (New York Live Arts), Hoppla! We're Alive! (New School / La MaMa), DirectorJam (Rattlestick), NIGHTGOWNS (Sasha Velour / Quibi). M.F.A: Yale School of Drama. nicvincent.com

Clare Hatlo is a queer creative producer and artmaker. She is currently working with Tim Smith-Stewart & Jeffrey Azevedo and MALACARNE. She has a food based joy practice rooted in nourishing community and making delicious food regardless of restrictions. She was a co-founder of the Satori Group, an ensemble theater company based in Seattle from 2008-2016. She has worn many hats on other projects including designer, stage manager and scenic artist.

Zee Boudreaux is the founder and perfumer of Vivat, an artisanal lifestyle brand and evolving art project launching in late 2023. Vivat is grounded in celebrating the aromatics of the natural world and combating the idea that perfume has a specified gender. Zee studied the art of perfumery with Mandy Aftel and the Institute of Art and Olfaction and holds a degree in fine art with a focus on textiles from the California College of the Arts. www.vivat.studio
