Sound Dampening Is a Snap with Spacekit

New acoustic art panels offer a stylish, innovative, easy-to-change design with functional sound absorption

Lititz, PA – Spacekit, blends savvy design style and functionality to provide sound dampening with a new line of customizable acoustic panels. Just like the original art system, Spacekit's acoustic panels feature an innovative, no-tools-required snap-and-go system.

Using durable half-inch thick felt, Spacekit's new acoustic panels come in a variety of customizable designs, while providing a Noise Reduction Coefficient Rating of 0.40, making it appropriate for residential and commercial interior applications. And a high-quality finish means Spacekit's acoustic panels will stand the long-term test of high-traffic commercial and multi-family spaces.

The new Acoustic Art Collection includes the same innovative features as the original Spacekit modular art system:

- Sustainably designed panels made from ACRE™ a 100 percent, tree-free wood alternative composed of upcycled rice hulls free of phenol, formaldehyde, and adhesives.
- Easy to install, no-tools-required recyclable framing system that includes self-leveling guides and spacers.
- Shipped flat-pack, ready-to-purchase designs on the Spacekit website are sold by the panel, measuring at 19.7" x 19.7".

Spacekit is launching with three initial acoustic art product designs. The Albers-inspired Roundhaus and Squarehaus bring the bold and the bright, while the Geo-Shapes go the simplistic, clean route. They offer a multitude of panel designs and felt color options.

Need a custom size and/or design for your next project? Spacekit's Trade Program offers a wide range of exciting benefits for designers and architects no matter the order size, from a small residential room to a large commercial chain.
