Heaven Is A Rainbow

*Somewhere there's a land that God calls his own
And I've been blessed to be there when walking alone
Now my eyes start to mist and my breath starts to fail
Enhanced by a rainbow at the end of the trail*

*It's beauty was more than I'll ever behold
There's a path at my feet all withered and old
And the radiance borne in the sky up ahead
Left me breathless for I'd followed the trail where it led*

*I'll live in this moment till the day that I die
Having gazed on a rainbow in a cool misty sky
For as I walked in the shadows that faded to night
The clouds swirled around me as birds in there flight*

*So here let me say that of all I have known
And I've seen the broad rivers in the hills where they flow
That you find later on when from life you've set sail
That heaven is but a rainbow at the end of a trail...*
