

Meet the Vikings of Llantwit Major

Many years ago, Irish and Viking raiders would come ashore here to attack the town and steal its valuables. Imagine how scary it would have been to see their boats arriving on the beach!

The townspeople grew tired of being attacked and one day decided to fight back, defeating a band of Irish raiders. They celebrated their victory every year on 3rd May, the day of the battle, during a festival that became known as Llantwits Anwyl Day (Annual Day). How do you think the townspeople defeated the raiders? Why not try making up the story yourself?

Why not try drawing your own treasure map in the sand! Use your finger or a piece of driftwood as your pencil, seaweed makes great sea monster obstacles, and shells are great for treasure!
