

SUPPORT ADELAIDE NATIONAL PARK CITY*

Would you like to help make Adelaide a National Park City?

The first and most simple action you can take is to sign the Charter at adelaidenationalparkcity.org to show your support. If you're keen to take more action then here are some suggestions.

WHAT CAN PLACES OF LEARNING DO?

(EARLY, PRIMARY, HIGH SCHOOL AND TERTIARY)

- * CONNECT: so much learning can happen beyond the classroom. Take your children or students outside to connect with and learn about their local places. Use your senses - what can you see, hear, smell and touch? How many large trees and small shrubs are around you? What creatures are living amongst the plants?
- * GROW: encourage others to value and protect local green spaces. Think about the value they bring. Plant out and care for any open spaces where plants and animals could thrive, however small. Think about how to attract butterflies and small birds.
- * HAVE A GO: work together to create bigger outcomes. Find out about and connect with your school with local community food gardens or groups, friends of parks groups or look for volunteering or citizen science opportunities.
- * DISCOVER KAURNA CULTURE: engage with Kaurna people in your local community. How do they connect with and protect Country? What can you learn from them? Learn some Kaurna language by visiting the online Kaurna Language Hub.
- * LIVE AND WORK MORE THOUGHTFULLY: ask children or students and their families how they could contribute to a National Park City by working and living more thoughtfully. Could they grow their own food, use less plastic, make compost for the garden, reuse old clothing and recycle household products? Brainstorm how we can all reduce our footprint.
