

Peter Walmsley

Coach / Facilitator

Peter helps organizations navigate uncertainty.

A highly experienced leader with extensive global experience, Peter helps shape strategic direction, drive organizational change, and provide leadership guidance, while developing critical relationships that lead to results.

Clients appreciate Peter's ability to:

- Listen and truly understand individual's perspective
- Ask questions that prompt reflection
- Develop relationships built on mutual trust
- Provide insights, ideas and inputs based on his global experience
- Generate enthusiasm and energy

Areas of expertise:

- C-Suite Leaders– helping leaders make sense of the challenges they face
- Organizational change – helping organizations drive change
- Heads of HR – helping new and existing heads navigate a path to success
- Throwing Leaders– helping build the next generation

More about Peter

An experienced leadership development professional, Peter works with companies worldwide, designing and running programs both in-house and as a consultant. He has a track record of success in building relationships across multiple levels in organizations, designing and facilitating offsite meetings, helping shape thinking and helping people develop actionable plans. Peter has a BA Honors in History from the University of York in England, is a MBTI Certified practitioner and is currently studying for an ICF accredited coaching qualification. Originally from London, UK he has lived and worked in Paris, Madrid, Geneva, San Francisco and now Boston, where he lives with his wife, Chitra, and two dogs. A passionate follower of English Cricket who has recently renewed his passion for horse riding, Peter spends as much of his spare time as possible in and around the stables.

client testimonials

A leader in the truest sense, Peter is an incredible colleague and friend who has been at the center of and critical to all that has been accomplished at GSN Games for 6+ years. He has navigated us through the most difficult times, doing hard things with grace, intelligence, wisdom and great humor. Peter led an HR department that functioned absolutely seamlessly - truly breaking the mold with their consistent efficiency, positive attitude and outstanding guidance. Are his shirts loud, his glasses wildly colored, and his language a bit English for this citizen of a break-away colony? Sure. But despite those distractions - or perhaps in part thanks to that levity in his soul - for me and the exec team, Peter has been a trusted voice of reason, highly connected to the people throughout the organization, and with the highest level of skill and experience.

– Mark Feldman CEO GSN Games

There was never a topic that Peter couldn't raise. There was never a topic where Peter couldn't formulate a really solid point of view. And there was never a topic where his view wasn't a helpful one. He was always able to unblock or help position any topic in my mind in a better, more informed way. There was lots of joy in the way he worked, a healthy dose of humor and a great level of "hey-this is the games industry"- approach. Always serious business, but never too serious. And he was always present in the discussions, unfortunately a decreasingly common feature in us humans.

– Wilhelm Taht – SVP Bingo & Casin

It was great working with Peter. I can't express in words. I really admire the way he led difficult conversations, tough situations and silently solved problems without anyone noticing.

– Kannan Raju – SVP Casino, Country Head India

It was great working with Peter. I can't express in words. I really admire the way he led difficult conversations, tough situations and silently solved problems without anyone noticing.

– Tricia Bertero – SVP New Games Development

client list

