a novel

jaime clarke

'Jaime Clarke pulls off a sympathetic act of sustained male imagination: entering the minds of innocent teenage girls dreaming of fame...Imagine Britney Spears narrating The Day of the Locust as a gentle fable and you'll get the idea.'

Paperback Original

DAISY, PAQUE, AND STELLA ARE THREE TALENTLESS GIRLS ON A QUEST FOR FAME. WHILE STELLA PERFORMS DINNER THEATER IN LA AND LUSTS AFTER BAD-BOY ROCKER BRYAN METRO, PAQUE AND DAISY WRITE POP SONGS AND FLIRT WITH AN UNSUCCESSFUL SIDE CAREER AS MODELS. THEY'RE ABOUT READY TO GIVE UP ON THE BAND WHEN A SENATOR'S SON AND HIS FRIEND ARE MYSTERIOUSLY MURDERED, AND PAQUE AND DAISY, THE LAST PEOPLE TO SEE THE VICTIMS ALIVE, BECOME THE PRIME SUSPECTS IN THE CASE. CASHING IN ON THEIR SUDDEN NOTORIETY, THEY RECORD AN EP ENTITLED WE'RE MASTERFUL JOHNSON, BUT JUST AS THEIR FAME ARRIVES, THEY FIND THAT THE REAL ADVENTURE IS ONLY BEGINNING. . .

FRESH, COMICAL, AND RICH WITH 80'S NOSTALGIA, WE'RE SO FAMOUS IS A HILARIOUS SATIRE ABOUT THE GREAT AMERICAN DESIRE FOR CELEBRITY.

'DARKLY AND PINKLY COMIC, THIS IS THE STORY OF A TRIO OF TEENAGE AMERICAN GIRLS AND THEIR PURSUIT OF THE THREE BIG M'S OF AMERICAN LIFE: MUSIC, MOVIES AND MURDER. THIS IS AN IMPRESSIVE DEBUT BY A TALENTED YOUNG NOVELIST.'

-JONATHAN AMES

'LIKE A MAKE-UP ARTIST, JAIME CLARKE IS A MASTER ILLUSIONIST; IN HIS DEFT HANDS, EMPTINESS SEEMS FULL, TEENAGE PATHOS APPEARS SASSY AND CHARMING. WE'RE SO FAMOUS IS A BLITHE, HIGHLY ENTERTAINING INDICTMENT OF THE PERMANENT STATE OF ADOLESCENCE THAT TRADEMARKS OUR CULTURE, A MADE-FOR-TV WORLD WHERE INNOCENCE IS HARDLY A VIRTUE, AMBITION BARELY A VALUE SYSTEM.'

-BOB SHACCHIS

Jaime Clarke was born in Kalispell, Montana, and educated at the University of Arizona and Bennington College. He lives in Brooklyn, New York.
